The metropolis of New Crobuzon sprawls
Humans and mutants and arcane races b its chimneys, where the river is sluggish with unnatural effluvia and factories and foundries pound into the night. For more than a thousand years, the Parliament and its brutal militia have ruled here over a vast economy of workers and artists, spies and soldiers, magicians, junkies and whores.

Now a stranger has arrived with a pocket full of gold and an impossible demand. And inadvertently, clumsily, something unthinkable is released.

As the city becomes gripped by an alien terror, the fate of millions lies with a clutch of renegades and outcasts on the run from lawmakers and crimelords alike. The urban nightscape becomes a hunting ground. Battles rage in the shadows of uncanny architecture.
And a reckoning is due at the city's heart, under the vast chaotic vaults of Perdido Street Station.

'Miéville writes with admirable confidence'
THE TIMES

'A well-written, authentically engrossing adventure story, exuberantly full of hocus-pocus . . . Miéville does not disappoint'
DAILY TELEGRAPH

'Miéville manages to create a truly awesome world . . .
A polished and beguiling novel'
